EASTERN WAR NOTES.

The Situation at Plevna--Movements of the Roumanians--Speculations.

LONDON, October 30.—The capture of Feliche indicates that the Russians have a firm hold of Plevna and the Sofia road but it is not yet certain that Plevna is entirely surrounded. Rahova, it is believed, is still in possession of the Turks, and that Ghazi Osman Pasha will make a desperate effort to keep it.

LONDON, October 30.—The headquarters of the Prince of Roumania and General Todleben has been removed to Bogot, in order, as alleged by a correspondent, that Paredin may be prepared for the Czar, who will take up his quarters there. It is more likely that the change is in consequence of the changed plan and point of attack against Plevna. The Roumanian division commander who recently led the assault on the second Grivitza redoubt, has been superseded, and the transfer of the Roumanians to a point south of Plevna seems to indicate the abandonment of the attempt to capture the works on the east front, and the establishment of better communication with the troops now operating on the Sofia road. If the Czar really intends to remove the Imperial headquarters to Paredin it may be the precursor of another attempt to carry Ghazi Osman's position by assault, at which, as in the attack of the 11th of September, the Czar would wish to be present, or it may indicate that the Russians are confident of the speedy capitulation of Plevna.

Details of the affairs at Goruy, Dubruk and Telische make it certain that they are more than mere raids on the Turkish communications; in fact, they are part of the new Russian movement involving an entire change of front, which is still further developed by the transfer of the Roumanians to Bogot.

Telische was surrounded on the 28th inst. by one cavalry, and two infantry brigades of the Imperial Guard and one brigade of Cossacks. It was bombarded two hours from seventy-two guns, when the small Turkish garrison surrendered. There was no assault and the killed and wounded on both sides were insignificant.

It will merely hold office long enough to offer a justification of its policy. In the Senate whether it retires a little earlier or later is quite immaterial The essential and now apparently settled thing is that it will retire.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

Day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—The President has issued the following: The circle of summer and winter, seed time and harvest, has brought us to the accustomed season at which a religious people celebrates with praise and thanksgiving the enduring mercy of Almighty God. The devout and public confession of the constant dependence of man upon the Divine favor for all the good gifts of life and health and peace and happiness, so early in our history made the habit of our people, finds in the survey of the past year new grounds for its joyful and grateful manifestation.

In all the blessings which depend upon benignant seasons this has indeed been a memorable year. Over the wide territory of our country, with all its diversity of soil and climate and products, the earth has yielded a bountiful return to the labor of the husbandman. The health of the people has been blighted by no prevalent or wide-spread diseases. No great disasters of shipwreck upon our coasts or to our commerce on the seas have brought loss and hardships to merchants or mariners, and clouded the happiness of the community with sympathetic sorrow. In all that concerns our strength and peace and greatness as a nation; in all that touches the permanence and security of our Government and the beneficent institutions on which it rests; in all that affects the character and disposition of our people, and tests our capacity to enjoy and uphold that equal and free condition of society, now permanent and universal throughout the land, the experience of the last year is conspicuously marked by the protecting Providence of God, and is full of promise and hope for the coming generations.

Under a sense of these infinite obligations to the great Ruler of times and seasons and events, let us humbly ascribe it to our own faults and frailties if, in any degree, that perfect concord and happiness, peace and justice, which such great mercies should diffuse through the hearts and lives of our people, do not altogether and always and everywhere prevail. Let us with one spirit and with one voice lift up praise and thanksgiving to God for his manifold goodness to our land, his manifest care for our nation.

Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as a day of National Thanksgiving and Prayer, and I earnestly recommend that withdrawing themselves from secular cares and labors, the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective places of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for his mercies, and to devoutly beseech their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this twenty-ninth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and second.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Wood and Garfield as Leaders--N. C. Members on Committee --Judge Baxter.

Washington, Oct 27th, 1877.

[SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.]

The week has dragged out without any legislation, after the disposal of the Colorado contested election case on Wednesday, the House adjourned until Monday. There is a disposition on the part of Northern members to adjourn until after the November state election. The proposition does not meet with much favor among Southern members, they are anxious to get to work and if possible do something for the relief of the country.

Garfield, is the leader on the radical side with Ben Butler and Hall as his associates. Whilst on the democratic side it is evident that Fernando Wood intends to force himself on the party as the champion and leader upon the floor.

The New York democracy think they have an undivided right to manage and dictate to the great national democratic party as to what course it shall take. When you take from the ranks of the New York delegation of the 45th Congress, Sam Cox and Clarkson N. Potter you rob it of its brains and influence.

Randall has been preparing his committees with much care in placing members where they can do most good for their sections of country.

The three chairmanships for North Carolina are said to be as follows: Scales, Indian affairs, Vance, Patents, Waddell, Post offices and Post roads. Robbins will be placed on ways and means Davis, Yeates and Steele will be pleasantly situated on good committees.

It is becoming more apparent every day that there will not be any division in the Republican party. They will as a united party support Hayes, or, in other words, Hayes will support the party.

John Baxter, of Tennessee, formerly a citizen and native of North Carolina, was to-day appointed by the President to fill the vacant U. S. Circuit Judgeship in the west, made vacant by the death of Judge Emmons. This is looked upon as a good appointmet. Baxter is classed as one of the best lawyers in Tennessee, and will no doubt make a most excellent Judge. He was well endorsed by the legal profession. Judge Swain, of the Supreme bench paid him a very high compliment. In conversation with a correspondent he said that Baxter was competent to fill any judicial position in the Government. Hon. R. B. Vance said the other day, in speaking of Baxter, when he was a prisoner of war in Knoxville, confined in a loathsome prison, the floor of which was lined with vermin and unfit for human beings to inhabit, Mrs. Baxter heard he was there. She at once sent him a nice, comfortable bed and fed him from her own table whilst he remained a prisoner in Knoxville. When he was leaving for other quarters Judge Baxter came to bid him farewell. With a warm, friendly grasp of the hand he placed one hundred dollars in greenbacks in his hands saying, "Take this; you will need it to make you comfortable before you get home." We may well imagine that the warm, kind heart of Gen. Vance will ever have a kind feeling for Judge Baxter.

There will be a strong effort made to pass a bill reducing the tax on tobacco and spirituous liquors during this Congress.

The increase of fast mail service between Washington and New Orleans is being discussed freely among Southern members. We are informed a bill will be introduced early the next session establishing fast mail service between the two mentioned points. This will be a good thing for our Southern railroads to show which can make the fastest time and best connections. The bill will make that provision and require the post office department to award the contract with that understanding. We regard this as a most excellent move, the present arrangement with some of the lines South is very unreliable. Connections are missed, passengers and mails are detained on account of bad and incompetent management. We read a published letter the other day written by one of the above mentioned class of Superintendents, vindicating his line against a charge which is too well established by facts, that his line had not missed connections as was stated by the post office department. So long as the country is afflicted with incompetent railway managers, and ignorant route agents the mail service must suffer. We saw a letter to-day post marked at an office in South Carolina which had been ten days in transit from date of post mark. It was supposed to have passed through the hands of the negro route agents on the Richmond and Danville road, that together with the irregular connections on that line may possibly help Davy Key and his right hand man Vail to ferret out the true cause of delay.

We would suggest for the benefit of the Southern people who are flattered with hopes of securing positions under the national government, that it is all a false delusion. They will get nothing until there is a change in the administration. It is a waste of time and a very unprofitable investment of money to come here. There are to-day in the city hundreds of both men and women who are leading a life of penury and want waiting and hoping to get positions under the Government.

Many persons living in the country think all that has to be done to secure first-class appointments is to get a Senator or a member of Congress to make the application and the place is secure. Such is not the case; they are often blamed when they have done all in their power. The appointments rest with the chiefs of the departments. Members can only recommend and express their desires to have appointments made.

As an illustration of this the Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives has only fifty-two appointments, and already there are on file over three hundred applications with him for the positions. Last week a saintly mother wished to have her son appointed as page on the floor. After failing in her wishes she wrote Col. Polk, the Doorkeeper a polite missive, enclosing the following verse of Scriptural comfort.

"And Jethro said to Moses, how can you judge of the people of Israel, the labor is too great. I advise them to appoint captains over tens and fifty and hundred thousand, that they may judge the people and leave the big cares alone to be judged by you otherwise you will wear yourself out and be made too common and loose your respect among the people of Israel."

A Grand Reception.

One of the grandest receptions that has taken place for a decade, was given by the "Signal Company" at Fort Macon, on last Tuesday eve, for the benefit of the ladies and gentlemen of Beaufort and Morehead City. Boats were in readiness by 6½ o'clock, at the Front-Street House wharf, to take the invited guests over. After seeing all comfortably seated, the boats were cut loose from their moorings and sailed off in the direction of the Fort. The night was beautiful, not a cloud disfigured the sky, the heavens were resplendent with thousands of stars, the waters were calm and undisturbed, not a wave ruffled its peaceful surface—in fact, everything was favorable, and we all felt this and enjoyed it accordingly. The sail was delightful, and we soon reached the Fort, where we were cordially greeted with lights by the members of the company, thence we were conducted to the hospital, where the evening was to be spent in various amusements, dancing, &c. The dancing room was beautifully decorated with festoons of cedar and evergreens, and the lights ornamented with flowers; also colors of every variety were tastefully arranged, and suspended from the walls above, which added greatly to the beauty of the room.

Dancing commenced at eight o'clock, and continued until twelve. When the supper was announced we all repaired to the dining-room, where the tables were spread with the most sumptuous delicacies, and all did ample justice to the repast, as the dancing and invigorating sea breeze gave zest to many a delicate appetite. We retired to the ball-room and again resumed dancing until 4 a. m.

Quite a goodly number were present from this place; but we are sorry to say there was only one representative from Morehead. Nevertheless we were consoled in knowing that the crowd was large and merry enough without any addition whatever. Everything was conducted in the most proper manner, and passed off successfully and agreeably to all. We were safely landed at Beaufort at the approaching dawn of day, and though the memory of the night's pleasure displaced the fatigue and sleepiness of the crowd, we were not sorry when compelled to disembark and disperse for our separate homes.

To the company we render our sincere and heartfelt thanks for the trouble and expense they so liberally extended for our benefit and pleasure, and we assure them that it was highly appreciated by all present. We also thank the gents of Beaufort for their courtesy and attention during the evening. The recollection of that memorable night will never be sunk into oblivion.

TWO LADIES.

THE FUTURE OF COTTON.

Say that 4,500,000 bales is now the prevailing guess among conservative people in America, and the bureau report for the month of September rather points in that direction, indicating as it does a condition four to five per cent. below last year, while it puts the increase of acreage at 4 per cent. One thing is coming to be clearly seen, our cotton supply needs to be largely increased, else the trade will drift into an awkward position. The deficit discovered in our stock, combined with the small receipts in America, are making an ugly gap in the visible supply—it is now about 400,000 bales less than last year, and unfortunately spinners also hold considerably less. At the end of last season continental spinners were well stocked; this year they are empty. Our spinners have added about 40,000 bales since the first of September; but then they had not a bale to spare. We should think the visible supply must be at least 1,000 bales below last year. The conclusion we are forced to is that the world has consumed during the past twelve months 300,000 to 400,000 bales more than its supply of cotton, in spite of bad trade and much short time both in England and the continent, and we will require for the coming season an American crop of at least 4,750,000, and also a large addition from India, simply to meet consumption. Our reserves of stock in Europe this year are uniformly small. We will evidently reach a period in November, or early in December, when our American supply will be reduced to a handful; that may not matter much if plenty is then coming forward and crop accounts improved, but it will be a serious thing if crop accounts should be poor. On the other hand, it is quite true that Manchester is unable to pay an advance on cotton in the present wretched state of trade. This rise of prices is a great misfortune, and is exceedingly to be regretted when looked at from this point of view; but viewing the matter broadly, it appears to us that prices of Manchester products have been allowed to sink far too low. The world will not grow a sufficient quantity of cotton to produce an unlimited supply of calico at 10d. per lb.—a price far below what ruled before the American war. Our cotton supply from all places except Egypt and America is drying up under the discouraging prices that have ruled, and we need large and increasing supplies from these countries to give the spindles an adequate supply. The losses of late years have caused timidity, and increased receipts would probably temporarily destroy the present advance. Copious rains in India and the rise in the value of silver may cause a better trade; could we see an end to the present dreadful war, more cheerful views might be indulged in.

[Southern Home.]

Mr. W. P. Williams, of Sharon township, brought into our office on Saturday, a large bunch of the Spanish chufa, the first that we have seen raised in this county. He first procured the seed from Capt J. F. Johnston of this city. The seed are planted in rows similar to those prepared for cotton and grows in bunches like our common peanut. The tops make a soft, fine hay about two feet in height, and horses and cattle are said to be very fond of it. The most nutritious part of it, however, is the seed, which are about the size of the butter-bean and are used for fattening hogs. The seed have a sweet taste, like a chestnut, and it is said nothing delights a hog more than to be turned loose in a field to root for them. The chufa is planted about the time of cotton and matures about the 1st of October, and requires only two workings during the year. Mr. Williams thinks that one acre of strong land will produce at least forty or fifty bushels. The chufa is a new thing in this country, but one we hope and believe will prove of great benefit to the farmers. It is at least worth a trial.

Mrs. Gen. Green's Recollections.

[Washington Correspondence of Chicago Times.]

A few days ago there came up from a plantation near Raleigh, N. C., Mrs. General Green, a lady years ago well known in Washington society. She has not been in the capital for many years. She is crippled with rheumatism, and poor as Job's turkey, she says; but I never had a more enjoyable conversation than with this veteran of fashionable life. She took me into the past with her. "This old hotel," referring to the National, "is a historic place. Here have been the great men of the past. I have seen Clay and Webster walk arm in arm up these stairs, and in a room on this floor Henry Clay died. Those rooms opposite the parlor were the President's rooms. Buchanan is the last one who lived here. Hamlin occupied them awhile. These dark, quaint corridors, and circular lights over the doors, look just as they did when, a bride, I first saw them. The frescoing, the painting on the walls, is unchanged. The fruit and flowers above the chandelier on the brown ground, and the painted cupids in the hall. Every face in the house is strange to me. All my friends are dead and gone. Mrs. Chittenden I can see now standing in the hall receiving her friends after her marriage. Her shoulders were superb, her dress elegant, her manners charming, and by her side that little ugly man, with tobacco-juice running from one corner of his mouth, and his cravat twisted under his ear. And Mme. La Vert was in her glory here in those days. I was so ill one time that my life was despaired of. Into my room came Mme. La Vert. 'I could not go, Mrs. Green, without showing you my lovely shoes.' She lifted up her party dress and danced about in her pink-satin boots, asked if they were pretty, and at last danced off like a fairy to her ball-room. I began to mend from the time I saw those pink shoes. Poor Mme. La Vert died last year, in poverty so bitter that she had not a cent to call her own. Mrs. Chittenden lost her beauty, was paralyzed, and died not very long ago. Mrs. Mills was a habitue of the hotel. She was very rich. Her daughter married Fernando Wood, and for this reason became so bitter that there was no communication between mother and child, and she willed even her pictures to a gallery, so that Wood never should have them to adorn his walls. Once she sat in her carriage while I went in to call upon her daughter. The carriage stood at a little distance. The elegant house was crowded. It was reception day. When I reached the carriage Mrs. Mills said excitedly, 'How is she?' How does she look? How did she receive you? What did she say?' 'Why don't you go and see her yourself?' I said, 'your own child—how can you be so bitter?' 'I will never go to see Alice so long as she is that man's wife. It is nothing to me how she is, she said coldly, drawing her furs about her neck. Mrs. Wood is now insane, and Mrs. Mills fell from a hotel window and killed herself one 4th of July—two years ago or three. That very 4th I was on the plantation far from any neighbor. I made the negroes take turns ringing the big dinner bell that hangs in the yard. I had flags on the house and bonfires at night, and the servants said, 'La, ole miss done gone crazy shure, keepin' up that clatter all day.' But I felt lonesome; I wanted to celebrate some way The next night three young Northern men came in the darkness up the lane to the house. I had been sitting alone, yawning, and waiting until the clock should count eight, so I could go to bed, for there is nothing going on at night in that dismal great house in the swamps. I was surprised to have visitors, for anybody that knows the country doesn't go out after night if he can help it—the roads are so dangerous. But these men had not been long in the country, and they rode up. They said they had heard me speak of Mrs. Mills, and they had got news that she was killed, and they started over right away to tell me. They stayed all night. How remorseful I felt. I had been ringing bells and burning fires in the cypress brakes while my old friend was dying, mashed and bruised beyond recognition. They said Fernando came to see her just before she died, but she would not have him admitted. In this hotel also lived Myra Gaines, poor as a mouse, running up bills to be paid when she came into her inheritance. She owes Charles O'Conor about $75,000. She owes board bills at every place in Washington, and her store bills have been running for twenty-five years. One night she had been put out of a hotel, and I took her in with myself. That was long after my husband's death. Myra was bright as a cricket. Her having been turned out made her prayer than common. We were dressing to go to a hop. Mrs. Gains had a handsome, large breast pin containing Gen. Gains' picture, surrounded by pearls. She was stirring over things in her trunk and dipping them up by the handful—she was a most untidy thing. 'Oh! Mrs Green, have you seen General Gains?' said she. 'General Gains?' 'Yes, his picture. I have lost my pin.' I smiled at her expressing her loss in that way, but while she was still rummaging I discovered that I had mislaid a similar picture of General Green. It was valuable, and I was alarmed. 'Oh! Mrs. Gains, I have lost General Green,' I said. We both found the brooches at the same moment, and I don't suppose it seems very wifely when I say we sat on the bed and laughed till the tears came, over the loss of General Green and Gen. Gains. General Scott was at the hotel a great deal. I never will forget a compliment he paid me. He told General Green that I was the handsomest and most richly dressed lady at a ball. My husband was so proud that he couldn't keep it, but had to come and whisper it to me. Now I have come back to the house, an old decrepit woman. Nobody remembers me. Children are grandparents and the gay old crowd that lived here before the war are all gone. Then champagne flowed like water. Six boys were kept busy in the wine room. Now a popping cork is seldom heard. Then the ladies all made grand dinner toilets; low necks, jewels, pink and blue silk the ladies wore, or sheer lilac organdies. The gentlemen waited in dress suits and gloves to conduct the ladies with ceremony into the dining-room. Every family had negro servants, coachmen and maids. Those were times of splendor which will never return. Then I wore a white brocaded silk and diamonds, and was led in to dinner by Lord Baltimore. Now I go in alone in a plain, black water-proof dress."

Of many other distinguished persons Mrs. Green gave me interesting reminiscences, but I must save them for another letter.

Speaker Randall.

[From the Independent.]

Mr. Randall's presence in the chair is extremely winning. Cast in Roman mould, tall and powerful, he sits high and looks the man he is. He is just fifty years old, but does not look forty-five. Those traces of wear and tear so palpable on the faces of many public men, telling, sometime of too little sleep, sometimes of too much drink, of eating ambition, or of nameless dissipation, are in nowise visible here.

The face tells somehow another sweeter and rarer story—of a happy home and of household loves. I doubt if any man could carry that expression who has a home and is not happy in it. Mr. Randall has a fine head, covered with closely curling black hair, clearly cut, strong features, with a square, solid, but not heavy jaw; a mouth that could hardly fail to have its own way, if it set about it. The very strong will of the man is perfectly apparent in his countenance; but combined with the head and brow, gives the impression of large power, rather than of mere wilfulness.

The Notches on Kinch West's Pistol.

(From the Sedalia, Mo. Democrat)

Kinch West, who became noted as a guerrilla leader in southwest Missouri during the war, and who afterward removed to Vinita, Cherokee Nation, where he lived a life of outlawry, was tried at the recent term of the United States Circuit Court at Fort Smith, and was sentenced to four years and four months imprisonment in the Arkansas penitentiary. He had forty-seven notches on the stock of his pistol, indicating as many lives taken in his numerous shooting affrays. People breathe easier when such people are behind the bars. [Why are not such people hanged?]

A Neglectful Liver.

The bile has a three-fold part assigned to it by the great manager, Nature. It assists in the digestive process, acts as a coloring agent of the blood, and is essential to the evacuative function. When the liver grows torpid, complete chaos ensues in the stomach and bowels; the bile is injected into the circulation in large quantities, and constipation and indigestion are produced. Pains under the right shoulder blade and through the right side, headaches, vertigo, yellowness of the skin, furred tongue and nausea, also follow. But these and other symptoms of billiousness, and the disorders which accompany it, are entirely removed by Hostetters Stomach Bitters, that benign rectifier of organic disturbance and remedy for physical weakness. Intermittent and remittent fever, urinary and uterine troubles, rheumatism, gout and other maladies, also yield to the remedial influence of the great corrective and invigorant. It is the people's chosen remedy.

exert a peculiar influence on the system. Their action is prompt, and their good effects are felt in a few hours. A quarter of a century of the study of the Liver has demonstrated that it exerts a greater influence over the system than any other organ of the body, and when diseased the entire organism is deranged. It is specially for the healing of this vital organ that I have spent so many years of toil, and having found the remedy, which has proved the greatest boon ever furnished the afflicted. Shall they be deprived of its benefits, and a vile imitation imposed upon them?

Let the honest people of America see to it that they are not defrauded. Scrutinize the label closely, see that it bears all the marks above mentioned, and buy the medicine only from respectable dealers. It can be found everywhere. Very respectfully,

W. H. TUTT.

Gents: I have for more than one year prescribed your Liniment, with the very best results. I have found it as an application in Inflammation of the Lungs (Pneumonia), or in Pleurisy, one of the very best. It penetrates the tissues or parts rapidly. In cases of irregularity of the heart's action depending on nervous irritation, it acts promptly After being made acquainted with the combination of your Liniment, and seeing its action in so large a number of cases, I do no hesitate to recommend the same to both the public and the profession. Yours truly,

STATE NEWS.

The Baptist State Convention will meet in Durham on the 7th November.

Wayne Superior Court was in session last week and this, and has ticketed four offenders for the public works.

We regret to learn, says the Goldsboro' Messenger, that the disease commonly called the blind staggers is very destructive to horses and mules in this section.

Mr. F. A. McNinch had the small bone of his leg broken a few days ago, by a fall in the saloon of Thos. J. Black. This is the second time Mr. McN. has had the same leg broken of late, says the Southern Home.

Asheville Pioneer: The locomotive which President Wilson is endeavoring to bring across the mountains, is now at the narrow part of the road, just above the double cabin and about half mile or three-quarters from the summit.

Cherokee Herald: We have just been informed, that about an hour after sunset, on yesterday, ten miles above Murphy on the Western Turnpike road, some person, unkown at this time shot and killed, Bart Johnson. Who or for what cause the killing was done we have not been informed.

Col. John Baxter, of Knoxville, Tenn., and a native of Rutherford county, in this State, has been appointed U. S. Circuit Judge of the Sixth District, which was recently made vacant by the death of Judge Emmons. The Circuit is composed of the States of Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Michigan. It is rumored that there is strong opposition to his confirmation.

The Washington Press states that the steam dredge boat Cambridge is now at work in digging out the channel at what is known as the shoals, one mile below town. She takes up on an average about 400 cubic yards of mud a day. When this work is done the river will be in as good condition as it was before the war, the piling which obstructed it having all been removed.

Southern Home: Thieves went into the stables of Col. A. M. Barry near Hopewell Church in this county, on Friday night, and rode off two of his horses. He caught the horses near the Biddle Institute the next morning where they had been taken up by a negro man who found them at his corn pile. They had the appearance of having been ridden very hard during the night. No clue to the thieves.

Southern Home: Mr. R. C. Ratchford of South Point, Gaston county, is now in his 88th year. He is the oldest man in that section, and now picks on an average of about 95 pounds of cotton a day. He can also follow the plow from sun up to dusk. He walks everywhere he goes and never thinks of riding his horse even to the field. He has not been in Charlotte for more than 40 years, and though he only lives seven miles from the railroad, he has never ridden on the cars in his life. Shortly after the Charlotte and Atlanta Air Line road was completed, he stepped over to look at the track and grading, saw the train pass and was satisfied with its working. He has expressed a desire once or twice of late of riding on the cars and visiting Charlotte. Mr. Ratchford thinks home is a good enough place for him and if there is any better place he does not care to see it. It is rare we find such perfect contentment.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

There is a man in Florida who advertises for the purchase of twenty million of oranges.

The people of New Orleans are moving in the matter of immigration. Several public meetings have been held.

The Atlanta Constitution doubts if cotton is still king in Georgia—hog and hominy appear to have dethroned him.

Mississippi will vote next month on an amendment abolishing the office of Lieutenant Governor and holding biennial sessions of the Legislature.

New Orleans Democrat: Cell No. 17, of the Fourth Precinct, has long been renowned as a theatre of horrors, and as a haunted place where the ghosts of the departed appear to the prisoners there incarcerated, urging them to self-destruction. Whatever there may be in the legend, a material fact comes to its support, for sixteen prisoners who slept in the doomed vault have been found hung dead on the next morning by the turnkeys.

A convention will be held at Association Hall, in Richmond, to-day, to encourage and promote the adoption of stringent measures for the protection of fish and game within the borders of the State. Mr. Charles T. Palmer, President of the Virginia Fish and Game Protective Association, requests a full attendance of the people generally. Dr. Ellzey, Professor of Natural History at the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College, Blacksburg, will deliver the address.

The State, city and Agricultural Society authorities at Richmond had quite a quarrel over who should receive President Hayes. It appears that Governor Kemper, claimed that it was his exclusive right to deliver an address of welcome to the President. To this the city authorities demurred and claimed that the acting Mayor of the city, Judge Meredith, who was chairman of the Democratic Committee on Resolutions at the St. Louis Convention, should, as the representative of the city, introduce Mr. Hayes. Then came the authorities of the agricultural society, who averred that as the President made the State Fair the occasion of his visit he was their exclusive property to welcome, exhibit and dispose of him as they thought proper. All the parties at last accounts appeared stubborn.

The following is the capitation tax feature of the Virginia Election Law. The act provides: If he (the person offering to vote) produce a receipt of the proper officer for the payment to the State, at any time prior to the day of election, of the capitation tax required by law for the preceding year, or on failure to produce such receipt, he shall show by satisfactory evidence that the same has been paid prior to the day of election, or that he has attained the age of twenty-one years since the expiration of the said preceding year, and there being no objection made, the said judge shall, without opening the ballot or permitting the same to be examined (except to ascertain whether it is a single ballot,) deposit the same in the ballot-box * * * and said judge of election shall cancel said capitation-tax receipt before returning it to the voter.

PUNISHMENT FOR THE INSANE.

An erroneous opinion prevails that corporal punishments are sometimes resorted to in insane asylums to control refractory patients. We fell into this common error when, in an argument some days ago upon another subject, we asserted that "punishments are inflicted in the Insane Asylum," which but for certain principles recognized in the fundamental law of the land, "would subject the Superintendent to indictment." We subsequently investigated the matter, and we find, we are glad to say, that this statement was not well-founded. The fact is, there is not now a lunatic institution in the United States in which punishments, as such, are inflicted upon the insane; and we are assured by those who are in position to know, that there is not a superintendent who could maintain his position or his respectability if he allowed it.

This treatment of insanity belongs to past ages, before insanity was known to be purely a physical disease, and not, as was then believed, a special visitation of Divine vengeance. It is true that there is a class of patients in every institution that have to be restrained mechanically or otherwise, to prevent injury to themselves or others, but this is not for punishment, but for protection. When force of any sort is used it is only to prevent harm, which might otherwise ensue.

We are assured by one who has had ample opportunities of knowing whereof he speaks, but not now connected with the Asylum, that not only is there no resort to any method of punishment or chastisement in institutions of the kind, and particularly in the Insane Asylum of our own State, with the internal regulations of which our informant was for several years connected, but that even an unnecessary harsh word—not to say action—on the part of any subordinate of the institution, would subject such subordinate to immediate discharge. Our Asylum is conducted upon the most enlightened and humane principles. The patients are treated with marked gentleness and tenderness; and all corporal punishment of these poor demented beings has been relegated to the crudities and the barbarities of past ages.

NORTH CAROLINA AND THE HOUSE COMMITTEES.

North Carolina is duly recognized on the Committees of the House. Our delegation is awarded three chairmanships—all important, viz: Post Offices and Post Roads—Hon. A. M. Waddell; Indian Affairs, Hon. A. M. Scales; Patents, Hon. R. B. Vance. Mr. Robbins is put on the Committee of Ways and Means; Mr. Yeates, on Banking and Currency; and Mr. Davis, on Claims. The committee list as published in the dispatches of yesterday is not complete. There are other committees on which North Carolina no doubt has representation.

We think our State peculiarly fortunate in having the chairmanship of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. Now, we will have more postal facilities; or North Carolinians will know the reason why of the excellent chairman, Hon. Alfred M. Waddell. He is a thorough-going, patriotic son of the old North State; he looks well after the interests of our commonwealth; and we shall expect to see, pretty soon post roads intersecting all parts of the State, and new post-offices springing up wherever needed.

A RINGING SPEECH FROM GOV. TILDEN.

On Saturday evening Gov. Tilden was serenaded by the Young Men's Democratic Association of New York. He made an off-hand speech of great excellence, from which we extract the following, embracing its leading features:

The election, although for State officers, has relations to national politics to which I know you will expect me to allude. The condemnation by the people of the greatest political crime in our history, by which the result of the Presidential election of 1876 was set aside and reversed, is general and overwhelming.

A Voice—We know you got robbed.

Mr. Tilden (excitedly)—I did not get robbed. The people got robbed (Cheers.) I had before me on one side a course of laborious services on which health and even life might be periled, and on the other a period of relaxation and ease. But to the people it was a robbery of the dearest rights of American citizens. (Applause and cries of "That's so!" "That's so!" from the crowd.) * * * The Declaration of Independence, the bills of right and the State constitutions all contain assertions of the right of the people to govern themselves and to change their rulers at will. These declarations had ceased to have any meaning to the American mind. They seemed to be truisms which there was nobody to dispute. The contests known to us were contests between different portions of our people. To comprehend the significance of these declarations, it is necessary to carry ourselves back to the examples of human experience in view of which our ancestors acted. They had seen the governmental machine and a small governmental class, sometimes with the aid of the army, able to rule arbitrarily over millions of unorganized, isolated atoms of human society. In forming the Government of the United States they endeavored to take every precaution against the recurrence of such evils in this country. They kept down the standing army to a nominal amount. They intended to limit the functions of the Federal Government so as to prevent the growth, to dangerous dimensions, of an office-holding class and of corrupt influences. They preserved the State governments as a counterpoise to act as centres of opinion and as organized means of resistance to revolutionary usurpation by the Federal Government. Jefferson, the leader of liberal opinion, in his first inaugural recognized this theory. Hamilton, the representative of the extreme conservative sentiment, in the Federalist, expounded it with elaborate arguments. Madison, the father of the Constitution, enforced these conclusions.

A Voice—How about the Returning Board?

Mr. Tilden—There were no returning boards in those days. The people elected their own President and there were no Louisiana and Florida returning boards to rob them of their rights.

Several voices—"Let's have the election over again!" "We want a fair show!" "Go for 'em again!"

Mr. Tilden—The increase of power in the Federal Government during the last twenty years, the creation of a vast office-holding class, with its numerous dependents, and the growth of the means of corrupt influence have well nigh destroyed the balance of our complex system. It was my judgment in 1876 that public opinion, demanding a change of administration, needed to embrace two-thirds of the people at the beginning of the canvass, in order to cast a majority of votes at the election. If this tendency is not arrested its inevitable result will be the practical destruction of our system. Let the Federal Government grasp power over the great corporations of our country and acquire the means of addressing their interests and their fears; let it take jurisdiction of riots which it is the duty of the State to suppress; let it find pretexts for increasing the army, and soon those in possession of the Government will have a power with which no opposition can successfully compete. (Applause.) The experience of France under the Third Napoleon shows that with elective forms and universal suffrage, despotism can be established and maintained. In the canvass of 1876 the Federal Government embarked in the contest with unscrupulous activity. A member of the Cabinet was the head of a partisan committee. Agents stood at the doors of the pay offices to exact contributions from official subordinates. The whole office-holding class were made to exhaust their power. Even the army, for the first time, to the disgust of the soldiers and many of the officers, who moved about the country as an electioneering instrument. All this was done under the eye of the beneficiary of it, who was making the air vocal with professions of civil service reform, to be begun after he had himself exhausted all the immoral advantages of civil service abuses. Public opinion in some States was overborne by corrupt influences and by fraud. But so strong was the desire for reform that the Democratic candidates received 4,300,000 suffrages. This was a majority of the popular vote of about 300,000, and of 1,250,000 of the white citizens. It was a vote 700,000 larger than General Grant received in 1872, and 1,300,000 larger than he received in 1868. For all that, the rightfully elected candidates of the Democratic party were counted out and a great fraud triumphed which the American people have not condoned and will never condone. (Prolonged applause and cheers.) Yes, the crime will never be condoned and it never should be. I do not denounce the fraud as affecting my personal interests, but because it is robbed the very fountains of free government. (Loud cheers) I swear in the presence of you all, and I call upon you to bear witness to the oath, to watch, during the remainder of my life, over the rights of the citizens of our country with a jealous care. Such a usurpation must never occur again, and I call upon you to unite with me in the defense of our sacred and precious inheritance. The Government of the people must not be suffered to become only an empty name. (Loud applause.) The step from an extreme degree of corrupt abuses in the elections to a subversion of the elective system itself is natural. No sooner was the election over than the whole power of the office-holding class, led by a Cabinet Minister, was exerted to procure, and did procure from the State canvassers of two States illegal and fraudulent certificates, which were made a pretext for a false count of the electoral voter. To enable these officers to exercise the immoral courage necessary to the parts assigned to them, and to relieve them from the timidity which God has implanted in the human bosom as a limit to criminal audacity, detachments of the army were sent to afford them shelter.

The expedients by which the votes of the electors chosen by the people of these two States were rejected, and the votes of the electors having the illegal and fraudulent certificates were counted, and the menace of usurpation by the President of the Senate of dictatorial power over all the questions in controversy, and the menace of the enforcement of his pretended authority by the army and navy, the terrorism of the business classes and the kindred measures by which the false count was consummated, are known. The result is the establishment of a precedent destructive of our whole elective system. (Applause.) The temptation to those in possession of the government to perpetuate their own power by similar methods will always exist, and if the example shall be sanctioned by success, the succession of government in this country will come to be determined by fraud or force, as it has been in almost every other country; and the experience will be reproduced here which has led to the general adoption of the hereditary system in order to avoid confusion and civil war.

The magnitude of a political crime must be measured by its natural and necessary consequences. Our great republic has been the only example in the world of a regular and orderly transfer of governmental succession by elective system. To destroy the habit of traditionary respect for the will of the people, as declared through the electoral forms, and to exhibit our institutions as a failure, is the greatest possible wrong to our own country. It is also a heavy blow to the hopes of patriots struggling to establish self-government in other countries. It is a greater crime against mankind than the usurpation of December 2, 1851, depicted by the illustrious pen of Victor Hugo. The American people will not condone it under any pretext or for any purpose. (Cheers.) Young men! in the order of nature we who have guarded the sacred traditions of our free government will soon leave that work to you. Within the life of most who hear me our republic will embrace a hundred millions of people. Whether its institutions shall be preserved in substance and in spirit as well as in barren forms, and will continue to be a blessing to the toiling millions here and a good example to mankind, now everywhere seeking a larger share in the management of their own affairs, will depend on you. Will you accomplish that duty and mark these wrong-doers of 1876 with the indignation of a betrayed, wronged and sacrificed people? (A voice—"You bet we will." Laughter.) I have no personal feeling, but thinking how surely that example will be followed if condoned. I can do no better than to stand among you, and do battle for the maintenance of free government. I avail myself of the occasion to thank you, and to thank all in our State and country who have accorded to me their support, not personal to myself, but for the cause I have represented, and which has embraced the largest and holiest interests of humanity. (Continued applause.)

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

I am only bilious, says the debilitated victim of sick headache, pain in the right side, constriction of the bowels, and hypochondria. Are these trifles, then? No; unchecked they lead to mental disease. And yet as surely as dawn dispels the darkness, Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient will remove them. Try it.

DAILY NEWS

WEDNESDAY..... .....OCTOBER 31, 1877

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the best weekly paper published in North Carolina. It is only ONE DOLLAR per year, postage paid, contains 32 columns of plain printed news from every section of the country, and important advertisements. Always Cash.

My Girl.

A little corner with its crib,
A little cradle, all so soon, a bib,
A little tooth so pearly white,
A little rubber ring to bite.

A little plat—all lettered round,
A little rattle to resound,
A little creeping—see! she stands!
A little step 'twixt outstretched hands.

A little doll with flaxen hair,
A little willow rocking chair,
A little dress of rich-est hue,
A little pair of gaiters blue.

A little school day after day,
A little schoolma'am to obey,
A little study—soon 'tis past,
A little graduate at last.

A little hockey hat and feather,
A little sack with roomy pockets,
A little chain, a ring and lockets.

A little while to dance and bow,
A little escort homeward now,
A little party somewhat late,
A little lingering at the gate.

A little walk in leafy June,
A little talk while shines the moon,
A little reference to papa,
A little planning with mamma.

A little ceremony grave,
A little struggle to be brave,
A little cottage on a lawn,
A little kiss—my girl was gone.

—[John S. Adams in St. Nicholas.

NEWS NOTES.

Hawkeye: Seven-eigths of the population of America are in debt to each other. Well, indeed, may our people be called the sturdy owemanry.

Rochester Democrat: Virginia's debt is only $36,000,000, and every Virginian feels that he will to drink fourteen times a day to make the least impression on it.

Worcester Press: Mrs. Nickell of Kentucky has just presented her husband with the twenty-first pledge of her fidelity. The region ought to be well supplied with small change.

Queen Victoria and the Princess Beatrice have been making lint at Balmoral for the wounded of the Eastern war, and the occupation has, in fashionable circles, driven out fancy work.

Norristown Herald: The Presbyterian Church has just decided that women cannot be permitted to preach in its pulpits. But the Presbterian or any other Church hasn't the power to prevent women from lecturing in bed at unseasonable hours of the night.

During the past year the consumption of cotton reached the highest point ever attained in this country, while the value of our cotton fabrics exported has, despite low prices, increased $7,000,000 within two years, or from $3,000,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1875, to $10,180,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1877.

Paul Feval, the brilliant French novelist, has written a book, "The Jesuits," which promises to be a great success. After Eugene Sue had published his "Mysteries of Paris," Dr. Veron went to see him, and laying 100 notes, each of 1,000 francs, on the table, said: "There is a fortune to be made in attacking the Jesuits." The result was "The Wandering Jew."

The window-glass manufacturing interest is now one of the principal industries of this country, and is destined eventually to check the importation from France and Belgium. In fact, large quantities of glass and glassware have been exported from the United States during the past year. There are in this country seventy-two glass factories, of which twenty-seven are in New Jersey, in which State there is a capital of $6,000,000 invested in the business.

The Rev. John Allison was fifteen years ago an eloquent and popular minister of Oconomowoc, Wis., but taking to drinking, lost his church, was deserted by his wife, and refused shelter by his son. Then he took to practising law, but his career at the bar was stopped by his love of drink, and he became a drunken tramp, without home, occupation or ambition. After sleeping out one wet night in the woods after a debauch he resolved to reform and abandon liquor, and now he is preaching temperance sermons in Oconomowoc.

When people ask Gordon H. Giddings, a one legged and very popular mercantile traveler of Syracuse, how he lost his leg, he generally replies, "Lost it on election," and that satisfies the most curious.—Utica Herald. Giddings seems to have got on a new tack, as he used to take pride in informing his friends that it was "bitten off by a cow."—Rochester Union. The last time he was in Rome he said he lost his leg through a hole in his pantaloons pocket.—Rome Sentinel. On the contrary he has frequently said that when he lost it he was going on the stump.

The strength of the Conservative feeling in Georgia is shown by the failure of the effort to defeat Senator Gordon for re-election. A combination of politicians, prominent among whom are ex-Governor Smith, ex-Governor Brown and General Robt. Toombs, have been at work against Gordon, endeavoring to secure the nomination for Members of the Legislature of men pledged to defeat him if possible. They have made his Conservative course in the Senate, his refusal to approve the filibustering movement of last Winter, and his friendly attitude toward President Hayes, the chief argument against him. Apparently they could have done nothing better calculated to stir up popular feeling in his favor, for more than four-fifths of the county conventions have been carried by his friends on the simple issue of his re-election.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Heaven on Earth—The Way the Dutch Do.

National Union.]

The Department of State has received a report from our minister at the Hague, in which it is shown, as an illustration of the carefulness and steadiness of the Dutch, that there has not been a bank failure in Holland in forty years, and that the paper money in the banks during that time has been equal to gold. There is no such thing as the failure of a fire insurance company in Holland, and, while the rate of insurance does not exceed one half of one per cent. the companies are flourishing. First class railroad fare is only one cent per mile, and yet the roads pay good dividends. Pilfering officials are rarely heard of. No free passes are granted. Dishonesty of any kind or failure in business means public dishonor. Four millions of people live within 20,000 square miles, and all appear happy and contented. The secret of its prosperity is that all live within their income and stick to industry and honesty.

What's the reason the people of this country cannot return to this happy and reasonable style of living.

In the fight against communism in Baltimore the Republican vote was reduced nearly a half. The men of property in the Republican party dared not run the risk involved in the election of Thompson.

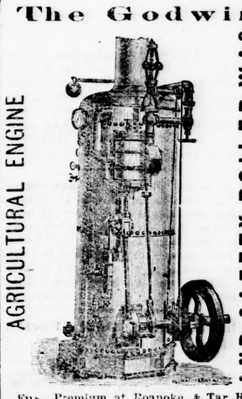
The Godwin



AGRICULTURAL ENGINE AND SAFETY BOILER WAS AWARDED THE

FIRST Premium at Roanoke & Tar River Agricultural Society, 1875. The Gold Medal, over all other competitors, at the North Carolina State Fair, in 1876.

It is the most perfect and economical in use. The Boiler is of new design, being vertical yet all the heating surface is entirely covered with water, thus preventing the fire from destroying the tubes as is the case, in a few years, in all upright tubular boilers in which the fire passes through the tubes above the water line, soon destroying the exposed end of the tubes causing them to leak.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

——Prof. Carmichael's Singing Class will meet to-night at 7, o'clock, in the basement of the Salisbury Street Baptist Church. *

——A plain gold ring was lost somewhere on Fayetteville street yesterday. The finder will be rewarded if returned to this office.

——There are letters held in the Raleigh postoffice for want of postage directed to C. H. Coffield, Winslow, N. C., and Frank Leslie, 298 Broadway, N. Y.

——To-morrow, Thursday being "All Saints" day, there will be morning Prayer in the church of the Good Shepherd at 10 o'clock with the celebration of the Holy Communion.

——Col. A. B. Andrews, Supt. N. C. R. R., and Maj. John C. Winder, Supt. R. & G. & R. & A. Air Line Railways, are among the visitors from this place at the Virginia State Fair.

——We were shown yesterday at the store of F. C. Christophers & Co., a sweet potato weighing 7½ pounds, of the Bahama variety. It was raised by L. Leroy Chappel near Forestville, N. C., who has a quantity of them on hand, ranging from 3 to 7 pounds each.

——We saw at the Auditor's office yesterday the register or book of "privilege taxes," of New Hanover county, prepared by Alfred B. Lind, deputy clerk of that county, which is the neatest and most artistic thing of the kind we ever saw. It ought to be adopted as a model.

Blow ye Trumpet Blow.

One of the bugle blowing hack drivers seriously asks, "What am I to do? My passengers ask me to blow my horn and wake them up in time to get to the train." All we have to say in answer is, that where one man wants to be waked up that way, there are twenty others in the vicinity who do not. We have received an anonymous note through the post office in which the writer, who seems serious and who wants his declaration made public, says he means to empty his shot gun on the next man who frightens a sick member of his family by blowing a bugle at dead hour of the night in front of his dwelling. He may or may not be in earnest, but we mention the matter to show what the feeling is with some on this subject. Now, what will you do?

A Generous Offer.

Mr. Geo. T. Stronach, one of our most public spirited and liberal citizens, informs us that at present there is very little wood in town, and as the rains have now set in, and poor people will find it very difficult if not impossible to supply themselves, he kindly offers to give to all such who will bring him proper certificates of their necessity, as much wood as they can haul away at a load from his residence on Wilmington street.

He may be found either at his office at Rand & Barbee's or at home.

For this almost unprecedented generosity Mr. Stronach deserves the lasting thanks of the poor of our city, and we are sure will ever live in their remembrance as a benefactor and friend.

Milton Nobles.

The troupe of which the above named gentleman is manager and leading artist, will give a performance of the sterling American society play, the "Phœnix," on Thursday night of this week. We have before noticed this play, and copied an article from a leading Southern journal which spoke in most flattering terms of the capital manner in which it is rendered.

A true representation of the peculiarly distinctive phases of American life, it is both amusing and instructive. The songs introduced during the play are also much admired. No one will regret attending the performance, and every one will be sure to be pleased.

A Slight Mistake.

A young lady from the rural districts stepped into one of our Fayetteville Street stores a few days since, and bending with tearful eyes over the counter, inquired "who is dead, I saw them digging a grave down the street?" The proprietor of the establishment was unable to answer the question at first, but on going to the door saw that what our country visitor thought was to be the last resting place of a departed mortal, was but the trench dug for the reception of a gas pipe! As soon as the power to use words returned, an explanation was made which carried joy to the heart of the sympathetic madien, and changed her tears to smiles.

Mayor's Court.

Ed. Pool, charged with larceny, was required to give bond to answer at November term of the Criminal Court, which failing to do, he was sent to jail.

Wm. Mayo, Mary Morgan and Alex Ferrall, for disorderly conduct and nuisance were all returned to the Criminal Court.

A few other cases entered on the docket but the parties had not been caught.

Arrival of Convicts.

The following convicts were brought to the penitentiary yesterday:

A. J. Simmons, deputy sheriff of Wilson, brought one white and two colored, terms, one, two and seven years.

D. F. Stephenson, deputy sheriff of Iredill, brought Sarah Johnston, whose sentence of hanging for infanticide, was commuted to ten years in the penitentiary.

Formation of a Guild.

The male members of the Church of the Good Shepherd are requested to meet in the church this, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a Guild.

A full attendance is desired, and any persons, not members of the congregation who feel interested in systematic church work are cordially invited to be present, and co-operate in the organization.

A Relic of the Olden Time.

We saw yesterday a gold watch that was once owned and worn by Gen. Frederick Hargett, one of the commissioners appointed by the General Assembly of North Carolina to locate and lay off the city of Raleigh, and in all probability he carried this watch in his fob as he walked and rode through the woods and old fields that covered the land now occupied by the buildings, streets and gardens of the city.

This watch is now in the possession of Mr. S. M. Hargett, of Newbern, a great grand son of General Frederick Hargett, whose acquaintance we had the pleasure of making yesterday. He is the son of John M. Hargett, the son of Abner Hargett, who was the son of Gen. Hargett, the original owner of the watch alluded to. It is said to be yet a correct time keeper, and we do not suppose it could be bought for anything less than a small fortune. We are promised some other interesting incidents and mementoes connected with the history of the family of Gen. Hargett, which we will take pleasure in laying before the readers of the NEWS.

Abstracts of Taxes.

Forsythe, general State tax, $4,098.37; special, $4,179.63; school tax, $4,712.93, county tax, $35,782.32, total, $48,773 25.

A Flying Four-Footer.

Somewhere down in the wilds of Jersey—if Jersey has any wilds there present Centennial days—one McDaniels dwells, in all the patriarchal comfort and dignity which attach to the English Lord of the Manor. He has a park, a stately mansion, groves of timber, and above all, the most famous racing stables in America. These royal stablishments contain some of the finest and fastest horses in the world. Among them is Harry Bassett, a monarch of the turf, who some time ago met with an accident to one of his slender and priceless limbs. Without wasting a moment in doubtful experiments, Mr. McDaniels applied some of Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia, and in a half a day the horse was as sound as the proverbial silver dollar No wonder McDaniels tells Dr. Giles to send skeptics to interview himself and his horse in Jersey.
